Omega Healthcare appoints Anurag Mehta as CEO

03 November 2021 | News

Sumithra Gomatam has been appointed as the Executive Chair of the Omega board

Omega Healthcare Management Services, a provider of technology-enabled business process services across the healthcare ecosystem, has appointed Co-Founder and President Anurag Mehta as the CEO. The current CEO, Gopi Natarajan has decided to retire after 18 years of leading the firm.

With more than 20 years of experience within the healthcare industry, Mehta will be instrumental in driving the company's next phase of expansion. As a co-founder of Omega, Mehta has a deep understanding of the business and is well poised to spearhead the organisation into its next phase of growth with his strong leadership and extensive healthcare industry relationships.

Omega also announced that a current member of the Board of Directors, Sumithra Gomatam, has been appointed as the Executive Chair of the Omega board. Sumithra brings over 30 years of experience in the information technology and business process services industry. She most recently held several senior roles at Cognizant, a publicly-listed global professional services company, where she spent over 24 years. At Cognizant, she was President of Digital Operations, which she scaled to nearly $2 Billion in revenues and transformed to be technology-driven with Intelligent Process Automation and Platforms and a significant focus on Healthcare and Big Tech clients.
