"In my two decades in competitive sports I have seen time and again, how access to the right experts and treatment facilities can help in injury prevention and rehabilitation", said Uthappa. "It is very encouraging to see the high-quality sports medicine facility that RXDX has invested in. I am sure it will be very beneficial for those who play sport at a competitive level as well as people who have adopted a sports and fitness-oriented lifestyle that is so crucial to good health".

"Bengaluru can lay strong claim to being the sporting capital of the country with a number of competitive athletes across several disciplines such as tennis, cricket, football, badminton, swimming etc., coupled with a thriving endurance sports culture with many long-distance runners, cyclists, and triathletes," said Dr Sunita Maheshwari, Founder of the RXDX chain of clinics.

"Sports activities may lead to injuries that can be prevented (and treated) with the right resources and in a timely manner. Our intention in establishing RXDX SportsMed is to provide the right sports medicine expertise to help the city's vibrant sporting and active fitness culture to thrive," added Dr Maheshwari.
