Seraniti is Cure.fit's second acquisition for the Mind.fit vertical.

Health and fitness startup CureFit has announced the acquisition of integrated mental wellness platform Seraniti. CureFit has rebranded Seraniti clinics at Bengaluru and Pune as Mind.fit, which offers online and offline yoga, meditation and therapy services.

Seraniti offers psychotherapy services through 15 in-house professionals. Its team assesses the users' requirement and matches them to the right therapist.

Mind.fit claims to be India's largest yoga chain with a membership of about 11,000, conducting 160 classes a day across its over 70 centres. Seraniti is Cure.fit's second acquisition for the Mind.fit vertical after the purchase of a1000 yoga in 2017.
