Healthians launches Chatbot for Coronavirus

25 March 2020 | News

The Chatbot will disseminate accurate information about the coronavirus

Healthians, India's doorstep health test provider has announced that the company has launched a chatbot to spread awareness about the virus, where individuals can ask their queries and receive verified information.

The Chatbot will disseminate accurate information about the coronavirus to the masses and dispel myths & doubts. Itis simple to use and has been customized keeping for Indian audience.

Deepak Sahni, Founder and CEO of Healthians said, “We have received many queries from customers calling and panicking with minor symptoms and wanted to consult a doctor or get tested. We quickly responded to the situation by making it easy for people to get self-informed and it’s our responsibility to create this awareness. This bot is trained to answer frequently asked questions on the new coronavirus, we want to help out as many people as possible with the right information.”

Healthians has raised over two rounds of funding from multiple investors including Health Start, Yuvraj Singh's investment venture YouWeCan, Asuka Holdings, BEENEXT, Digital Garage and others.
