

"This crisis is a great opportunity to re-invent healthcare delivery in India"- Kris Gopalakrishnan

24 June 2020 | Views | By Manbeena Chawla

Kris Gopalakrishnan, Chairman, Axilor Ventures & a part of the Swasth Governing Council talks about the recent developments taking place during COVID-19

"A coalition of over 100 healthcare specialists have come together to launch Swasth, a nationwide telemedicine platform for Corona care, which digitally connects Indians to the best doctors and wellness providers. Swasth has brought together the best of resources in the country to provide free healthcare to bring quick relief during the crisis. Swasth will work to further public health goals and work in coordination with the Medical Council, public health organizations, and the private sector to expand quality healthcare access to the masses. I firmly believe that this crisis is a great opportunity to re-invent healthcare delivery in India."

Kris Gopalakrishnan, Chairman, Axilor Ventures & a part of the Swasth Governing Council