WONDRx launches app for pre-booking of vaccination

17 September 2020 | News

Now residents can virtually book appointment for vaccine in nearby clinics

Mumbai-based health-tech start-up WONDRx has recently launched an application for Indian citizens to book an appointment with the nearest doctor or the vaccination clinic to get themselves vaccinated. This platform will ensure vaccination reaches every nook and corner of India.

WONDRx has tied up with doctors and qualified healthcare service providers across the country to ensure easy accessibility of the vaccine to the concerned citizens through an app.

The start-up has already curated and listed 180K plus healthcare providers on its WONDRx consumer app, making it the largest healthcare providers' aggregator in India.

The co-founder and Director of WONDRx, Pankaj Agarwal commented, "Our app would list the details of all vaccination clinics that we are curating, along with the fees to be paid for availing the vaccination at a pre-booked time slot. Vaccination booking via pre-booked slots will ensure crowd management as well while maintaining social distancing aspects. People from every nook and corner of this country would be able to make an informed decision based on the details provided."

The app would be compatible with Android phones in the first phase and iOS versions would be launched at later stages. This app would be available as a free download from Google Play Store for every consumer and healthcare provider of this country.
