CAHO partners with Swasth to strengthen Indiaâ??s digital healthcare ecosystem

27 October 2020 | News

The partnership aims to accelerate the implementation of the National Digital Health stack

The Consortium of Accredited Healthcare Organisations (CAHO) that represents the healthcare providers of all shades in India, has recently partnered with Swasth to strengthen the digital healthcare ecosystem and provide quality healthcare solutions to every individual.

The partnership aims to accelerate the implementation of the National Digital Health stack and subsequently work towards nation-wide adoption of the platform. CAHO and Swasth will work together to enable healthcare providers, including small clinics and nursing homes, to be on the digital platform and further the reach of digital health in India.

CAHO and Swasth will collaborate on research and building digital technologies, help build standards for the digital healthcare ecosystem and work towards the adoption of standards and Health Stack implementation, all to enable healthcare providers to improve access, affordability and quality of care, especially to the underserved.

Dr Vijay Agarwal, President of CAHO, New Delhi said, “CAHO has always been committed to promoting the adoption of technology solutions to promote quality, efficiency and patient safety as well as leading healthcare quality improvement initiatives. We are optimistic that this partnership can further these initiatives and lead to improved quality of healthcare services in India.”
