In the first phase, the company will make its testing facility available for the general public in two of the most affected cities in India - Mumbai and Delhi. SpiceHealth will also allow sample collection from the comfort of their home at a nominal charge. Customers will also have the option to book online appointment and get themselves tested at the nearest SpiceHealth mobile lab.

SpiceHealth's mobile labs are accredited by the National Accreditation Board for Testing and Calibration Laboratories (NABL) and Indian Council of Medical Research (ICMR).

Avani Singh, CEO, SpiceHealth said, "We are proud to extend our quick, seamless and smooth testing facility to the public at large in Mumbai and Delhi, to start with, and we strongly believe that testing remains as important as ever in our fight against this pandemic as that's the only way to quickly identify, isolate and treat those infected."
