Dr Pradeep Mahajan of StemRx conferred with European Global Health & Pharma Award

21 June 2021 | News

Dr Mahajan received the accolade for breakthrough innovations and giving valuable contribution to the science community

Dr Pradeep Mahajan of StemRx, who is a regenerative researcher and stem cell medicine expert, has received European Global Health & Pharma Award from a UK-based firm. The UK-based firm Global Health and Pharma lauded those individuals and companies going above and beyond, to come up with breakthrough innovations and giving their valuable contribution to the science community.

Dr Mahajan, Regenerative Medicine Researcher, StemRx Bioscience Solutions, Navi Mumbai, “The past year was challenging for the people of medical and scientific fields due to covid pandemic. Since the entire world is suffering from a global health crisis, it was requisite to develop MSC and LPRP protocols for patients. Still, new therapies and treatments were invented for the sake of people to help them overcome their health issues. I thank Global Health and Pharma for recognising StemRx, and our efforts by honouring us with the award. We are elated and look forward to serving the nation during these unprecedented times, and keep contributing for the welfare of the society.”
