The company will hire 1500 personnel in the next six months

Healthians, funded by Cricketer Yuvraj Singh, will launch health testing at home in 100 new cities in the country to prepare for the third wave of the COVID-19 pandemic. For this expansion, Healthians will also recruit 1,500 support staff, including pathologists, phlebotomists, lab technicians and runners, over the coming six months. The support staff will play an important role in the company's resolve to take home diagnostic services across the country by the year 2022. After this new expansion, Healthians will have health test at-home facilities in more than 200 cities in India.

Deepak Sahni, CEO and Founder, Healthians, "Over the last seven years, the company has built a strong tech platform to provide the country with high-quality home tests, sample collection and quick reports. There couldn't be a better time than today to launch Healthians' 'At Home' diagnostic model in 100 new cities across the country."

All healthcare tests can be booked effectively on Healthians' website, or application and samples are taken from home with online report delivery.
