Atul Soneja joins CitiusTech as President â?? Operations

09 September 2021 | News

Soneja has over 26 years of leadership experience at Infosys and excels in technology services, digital transformation, product engineering, AI/ML, and automation

CitiusTech announced the appointment of Atul Soneja as President - Operations. Soneja will focus on strengthening CitiusTech's delivery organization, including its proficiency teams and corporate functions, to drive operational quality, scalability, and service delivery excellence.

"Soneja brings to CitiusTech an impressive set of leadership capabilities and experience across technology delivery and product development," said Rizwan Koita, Co-founder and CEO, CitiusTech.

Soneja has over 26 years of experience in building and scaling technology products and services organizations across the globe. Before joining CitiusTech, Soneja was the Global Head of EdgeVerve, a subsidiary of Infosys that focused on AI and automation products and platforms. Before EdgeVerve, he handled multi-billion-Dollar IT services businesses at Infosys, across multiple industry verticals like financial services, manufacturing and retail.

"As a healthcare technology leader, CitiusTech combines digital technology, healthcare domain expertise and global delivery capabilities to accelerate innovation at scale," said Soneja.

Jagdish Moorjani, Co-founder and COO, CitiusTech, "His deep understanding of global technology services and products along with his strong expertise in digital transformation will enable us to scale our organisation, drive innovation in digital health, and continue to serve our clients with exceptional collaboration."
