Startup Zini.ai raises Pre Series A funding from Solarus Group

28 October 2021 | News

The funds will be used towards upgrading Ziniâ??s technological abilities, business development and expanding into new markets

Zini.ai, an AI-powered multilingual virtual physician, a flagship product by Delhi-based Grainpad, has raised Pre Series A funding from Solarus Group, a London-based Venture Capital & Private Equity firm with a presence in England, Egypt and India. The funds will be used towards enhancing existing technology, new business development and expanding into new geographies.

Zini.ai is AI-powered, voice-based virtual physician designed by a team of experienced doctors and techies. Accessible through an app, Zini allows users to 'Talk to Zini' about any medical symptom or health issues. With an Alexa-like experience, the app can evaluate 950+ health symptoms, 300+ diseases, provide a detailed report, recommend the best course of action and share details of nearby medical facilities that a patient can reach out to.
