Partnership highlights its efforts to provide cashless healthcare to its members across the top hospital chains in Bengaluru

Healthtech company Even has partnered with Bengaluru-based Fortis Hospitals, Narayana Health and Aster DM Healthcare. This is the first-ever partnership of its kind where Even will offer its members unlimited diagnostics and consultations, and hospitalisation costs up to Rs 50 lakh through monthly subscriptions.

The subscription-based membership is aimed at introducing access to high-quality, affordable healthcare in India. Additionally, patients who wish to switch from one partner hospital to another do not need to move their details or any paperwork around, all data will be available with patients' consent.

The company has launched its membership product in Bengaluru. Currently, Even has 40,000-plus waitlisted users.

Even recently raised $5 million in seed funding led by Vinod Khosla (Khosla Ventures), with participation from Founders Fund (led by Peter Thiel), Lachy Groom and other investors and operators, including Nikesh Arora (CEO, Palo Alto Networks, ex-COO, Softbank), Kunal Shah (CEO, CRED) Nithin Kamath (Founder, Zerodha) and Tom Stafford (Partner, DST Global).
