Online consultation of all these doctors will be made available for all Emoha members along with other HealYos services like physiotherapy, nursing, wound dressing and regular medical checkups

In its bid to provide robust home-based healthcare services in western India, HealYos Home Healthcare and Emoha Elder Care Services have joined hands. North India-based Emoha is a tech-based start-up.

Maharashtra-based HealYos has a team of doctors from different specialties and provides home healthcare. With this tie-up, online consultation of all these doctors will be made available for all Emoha members along with other HealYos services like physiotherapy, nursing, wound dressing and regular medical checkups.

Rupal Sancheti, Director, HealYos, said, "There are many who cannot look after their parents because they don't stay in India or stay in a different city away from their parents. It is in this space that HealYos along with Emoha will be creating an impact by providing excellent at-home health care services for elderlies by combining the expertise that both the companies have. We want to achieve excellence by providing hassle-free services."

Emoha provides holistic elder care services by giving seniors access to a range of benefits such as emergency support, providing at-home care facilities, and ensuring they live safer, healthier, more convenient and more active lives.

Saumyajit Roy, CEO and co-founder of Emoha, said, "I am happy that we can now expand in western India too with the help of HealYos. This tie-up is crucial as it will help us utilise the best of both the companies, to achieve the best quality healthcare services for seniors."
