The budget should focus on up-skilling of the youth: Jindal Naturecure Institute

31 January 2022 | Views

KR Raghunath, Senior Chairman, Jindal Naturecure Institute

An allocation only for strengthening communicable disease surveillance is a sub-optimal solution. The budget for up-skilling of the youth to become preventive health coaches is also required since this will address the problem of unemployment. We need to consider coming out of this pandemic as a healthier and fitter country. Standardising naturopathy practice is critical as it will enable us to lay down strict standards that have to be adhered to by all naturopaths and conducting mass awareness campaigns to educate the masses is the right way forward.
