

Built over the Ontosight platform, the app uses AI technology to search 95 per cent of the Internet every day for updates to registries, drug approval sites, and clinical trial databases. The information compiled on the app is reviewed by an expert panel and provided to the app users, in a manner that only the information relevant to the patient's cancer profile is displayed. This significantly cuts down the time spent on search and eliminates misinformation risk.