

Noida-based startup Neuphony secures funding to build more brain gyms

20 June 2023 | News

Neuphony has set its sights on becoming a global leader in brain health technology within the next three years

Neuphony has partly raised its Pre Series A funding round from ah! Ventures Angel Platform with participation from majority of their existing investors.

With a presence in 16+ countries and 15 brain gyms, Neuphony is building a global community dedicated to prioritising mental health. The company's ambitious vision includes establishing over 1,000 brain gyms in the next three years, aiming to change the lives of 1 billion individuals by fostering a proactive approach to mental well-being and challenging stigmas.

To further scale their sales in international countries, Neuphony recently started a pre-Series A funding round. Previous investors like ah! Ventures and Rajesh Bhojwani, founder and managing director of RBB Ship Chartering Pvt. Ltd., from Singapore, reinvested in the company, as well as the angel investors from the UAE and India.

The Noida-based startup Neuphony is a pioneering brain health technology company, making significant strides in the field of brain-computer interface (BCI) devices with neurofeedback techniques. Neuphony's innovative product is transforming the way individuals understand and prioritise their brain health, fostering a proactive approach to mental well-being, and challenging stigmas.

Renowned institutions such as IIT and NIMHANS have embraced Neuphony, while researchers, neuroscientists, psychologists, and psychiatrists from around the world have utilised their product for studies, clinical cases, and new product development.
