Allcargo Supply Chain accelerates growth with strategic expansion and diversification plans

26 February 2024 | News

Nationwide expansion plan includes the establishment of standardised warehouses equipped with cutting-edge facilities

Allcargo Supply Chain, the contract logistics business arm of Allcargo Group, is poised for significant growth as it expands its operations to meet the evolving needs of the market.

Currently operating in 6 million sq ft of space, the company aims to add an additional 3 million sq ft within the next 2-3 years as part of its expansion plan. The initial phase of this expansion plans will begin from the north and south regions. Allcargo Supply Chain has warehouses spread across more than 80 locations in India.

Its growth trajectory aligns with the surging demand for a premium logistics solution in key sectors, including auto engineering, ecommerce, chemical, and retail. The company's diversification plan encompasses an expansion of transportation services, catering to both Full Truck Load (FTL) and city distribution, showcasing its commitment to meeting the evolving needs of its diverse customers.

The nationwide expansion plan includes the establishment of standardised warehouses equipped with cutting-edge facilities. These warehouses will cater to all sectors, with client distribution comprising 25% from the chemical sector, 30% from ecommerce, 25% from auto engineering, and 15% from other verticals.

The company has more than 27 multi-user chemical warehouses, serving more than 70 companies. Recently the company has set up a state-of-the-art Grade A chemical warehousing facility at its mega multi-user chemical warehousing complex at Uran in Navi Mumbai for its MNC clients.
