Garware Fulflex India acquires Avcor Health Care Products to strengthen medtech portfolio

29 February 2024 | News

Serving both existing and new customers with a wider range of medical consumable products

Garware Fulflex India has announced the acquisition of Avcor Healthcare Products Inc., a prominent US-based developer, manufacturer, and marketer of premium compression dressings, thermal compression & cohesive compression bandages, tourniquet straps, and I.V. aids for both institutional and consumer/retail healthcare markets.

As part of the asset purchase agreement, Garware Fulflex integrated Avcor Healthcare Products into its global portfolio, serving both existing and new customers with a wider range of medical consumable products.

Garware Fulflex is a distinguished industry leader in thin gauge polymers, serving a wide array of sectors including medical, sports and rehabilitation, PPE, textile, and others.

Founded in 1984, Avcor has built a reputation for excellence with its patented elastic bandages, including the widely recognized Honeycomb X-TEN bandage known for its superior performance and reliability.
