

HealthPresso to raise $1 M in Pre-Series A funding round

21 June 2024 | News

Infusion of capital will accelerate the growth trajectory, enabling the scaling of operations

New Delhi-based health tech startup HealthPresso is all set to raise a $1 million pre-series A funding round, instrumental in the platform's initial growth phase.

The investor community has shown substantial interest in HealthPresso, recognising the potential of its custom artificial intelligence (AI)-engine (Humeta) and extensive distribution network. This infusion of capital will accelerate the growth trajectory, enabling the scaling of operations and enhancement of service offerings.

HealthPresso is a revolution in healthcare communication, wielding the power of AI to transform the industry. The startup caters to a diverse audience including the individual doctor, the hospital, the healthcare brand, and the strategic PR/media agency. Through its groundbreaking strategies, HealthPresso is entering a new era of informed healthcare.

From a team of just three, HealthPresso has grown to a dedicated team of 15 professionals. We have established strategic locations in Delhi, Singapore, Canada, and Bengaluru, where we also have dedicated business development teams. This geographic diversity enhances operational efficiency and positions us to better serve a global client base.