With a focus on seamless, AI-powered journeys and patient-first care

Gurugram-based startup HexaHealth, a leading tech-enabled surgery care platform, has successfully closed its $12 million Series A funding round. The round was led by Orios Venture Partners and 3one4 Capital, with participation from new investors Enzia Ventures and ITI Growth Opportunities Fund, along with existing backers Chiratae Ventures and Omidyar Network India. This milestone funding will accelerate HexaHealth's mission to reshape how surgical care is delivered and experienced across India.

The new funds will be strategically deployed to drive HexaHealth's next phase of growth. Key initiatives include expanding into new surgical specialties, entering additional geographies across India, building an artificial intelligence (AI)-powered platform to further personalise and enhance patient care, and strengthening the senior leadership team to accelerate innovation and impact.

To date, HexaHealth has facilitated over 30,000 surgeries across India's key cities, offering patients not just procedures but peace of mind through compassionate, end-to-end care. In FY25 alone, HexaHealth facilitated nearly 15,000 surgeries, valued at approximately Rs 150 crore, and achieved positive contribution margins, signalling strong unit economics. The company is now expanding into new cities, bringing its patient-first approach to millions in need.

By seamlessly integrating advanced technology, clinical expertise, transparent pricing, hospital partnerships, financing solutions, and compassionate support, HexaHealth — founded by Ankur Gigras, Vikas Chauhan, and Dr Aman Priya Khanna — is shaping the future of surgical care in India. The platform's holistic approach ensures that every patient's journey is not only safe and efficient but also grounded in trust and empathy.
