Mumbai-based startup Dent@Home secures strategic investment from BizDateUp

13 June 2026 | News

To accelerate the adoption of technology-enabled, patient-centric dental care

BizDateUp, in partnership with actor Taher Shabbir and producer-director Ashutosh Shah, has made a strategic investment in Mumbai-based startup Dent@Home, acquiring 25% stake in the company.

Recently featured on Shark Tank India Season 5, the healthcare startup is pioneering portable and at-home dental care services for hospital-bound, homebound, immobile, and elderly patients.

The investment will support the company's next phase of growth as it expands its bedside dental care model across India, with a focus on making professional oral healthcare more accessible, convenient, and patient-centric.

Dent@Home has been working towards bridging the gap in oral healthcare accessibility by offering professional emergency & critical dental services at patient's homes and hospital bed particularly for elderly individuals, people with mobility challenges, and those seeking convenient access to quality dental care.

The company plans to further strengthen its service network, enhance customer experience, and expand its operational footprint across key markets.

The investment comes at a time when home-based healthcare services are witnessing growing adoption across India, driven by increasing senior citizens population, accessibility issues and personalized essential care. As healthcare delivery models continue to evolve to the increased youth immigration abroad and rising life expectancy, mobile healthcare solutions are emerging as an important component of elderly patient-centric care.
