Cloudnine Group of Hospitals in collaboration with BAPIO (British Association of Physicians of Indian Origin), is inviting applications for the upcoming batches of its UK MRCOG (Membership of the Royal College of Obstetricians and Gynaecologists) and Member of Royal College of Paediatrics and Child Health (MRCPCH) Sponsorship Programme.

Designed for MBBS, MD/MS, and DNB-qualified doctors, the programme aims to support aspiring specialists in Obstetrics & Gynaecology and Paediatrics through structured academic training, clinical exposure, and mentorship from experienced clinicians.

The initiative is focused on helping doctors pursue globally recognised qualifications while enhancing their clinical expertise and career prospects.

This three-year programme offers participants a unique opportunity to learn from experts, gain hands-on experience, and align their practice with international standards of women's and child healthcare.

Speaking at the sidelines of the initiative, Dr Naga Nischal, Head of Clinical Services said, "The programme is particularly relevant for doctors seeking to enhance their academic credentials, broaden their clinical perspectives, and pursue internationally recognised pathways in reproductive, maternal, neonatal, and child healthcare."
