Even Hospitals launches India's first live public hospital performance dashboard

20 November 2026 | News

The dashboard gives patients an ongoing view of hospital performance, with clinical and operational measures updated daily

Bengaluru-based Even Hospitals has launched Even Spotlight, India's first live public-facing hospital dashboard combining clinical outcomes and operational performance, giving patients and the wider public an ongoing view of how the hospital is actually performing.

The launch comes shortly after the startup's announcement of its $50 million Series B funding round led by Khosla Ventures, reinforcing the company's larger vision of building a healthcare system that is more transparent, accountable and centred on measurable patient outcomes.

Updated daily, Even Spotlight brings together measures across clinical outcomes, patient experience and hospital operations, with each measure presented against a defined target or benchmark. The objective is to make hospital performance more transparent and give patients access to information that is typically available only within hospital management systems.

For Even, the initiative is about moving the conversation around hospital quality beyond infrastructure, accreditation and reputation towards measurable outcomes and actual performance.

The dashboard is powered by Even Hospitals' in-house operating system, which the hospital uses to measure different aspects of its clinical and operational performance. Each measure has an identified target, with a traffic-light system indicating whether performance is on target, near target or requires action. The dashboard currently covers outpatient and inpatient measures, with additional metrics being added regularly.

Importantly, Even Spotlight is designed to make the measurement process itself transparent. The dashboard will continue to evolve as new measures are introduced.
