

Israeli firms keen to invest in India

12 February 2003 | News

Israeli companies specializing in information technology (IT), security, agricultural tools, biotechnology and pharmaceuticals are showing keen interest to invest in India, according to IslamOnline.net. The portal reported that Israel's biotech company Teva Pharmaceutical is trying to set up a research and development base in New Delhi. In this regard it has signed a deal with JK Drugs and Pharmaceuticals, a leading Indian company with international business operations.